

Freedom - Your Personal In-Home Care Team.

Our care teams have a singular focus on helping patients get stronger and more independent. It's about skill, experience, collaboration, communication and compassionate care. And it's all centered around patients.

Freedom Home Health services are built on a true continuum of care model. That's because health and recovery challenges are rarely isolated — it's all interrelated, so Freedom Home Health services are a coordinated set of care activities.

A team approach to recovery and independence.

We focus on the whole patient

Why Freedom

Freedom Home Health operates as a highly effective extension of a patient's own care team. Working with the physician, the physician's staff, and the discharge counselors, Freedom Home Health develops a care plan with clear, measurable objectives. Then, we communicate the plan to the patient, the family, and the medical team.

Our Team

Team members at Freedom Home Health possess both the external measures of competence — degrees, certifications, and experience — and the personal qualities that can drive positive outcomes in home health care... qualities like careful observation, seasoned intuition, and good communication. It's about caring, deeply and genuinely.
